I (Great applause.) Such were the words with which I commenced an address to the friends of Polk, Dallas, and Shunk, in 1844, about this season of the year, in the district of Spring Garden; and the Democratic news that had come that day, - the day succeeding a gubernatorial and congressional election - was esteemed as the sure presage of victory to the party, as we esteem the news to-day. (Cheers.) We live in curious times, politically, my friends. Why is it that the Democratic star of the East, and the young Democratic Giant of the West, have wheeled into line and put themselves on either side of the Whig Gibraltar, Vermont? Why stand Democratic Maine and Iowa, supporting Whig Vermont? There is a significance in the fact. It tells, to those who understand it, the whole secret of the uprising of the people which has made a party (so far as Pennsylvania is concerned but a few weeks old,) the master of the destinies of the Commonwealth, and the party to settle the coming national election. (Immense applause.) The Whigs of old and the Democrats of old, however they differed upon other questions, agreed upon one; - indeed, their agreement was so entire that no question was made upon that subject. They differed as to a National Bank; they differed as to Tariff; they differed as to the distribution of the public lands; they differed as to the improvement of rivers and harbors by the General Government; but they agreed...
