October 10, 1866. I deem it a great privilege to be permitted this evening, on behalf of the members of the Manhattan Club, to extend their cordial hospitality and welcome to our honored Governor and to the distinguished guests who gladden this occasion by their presence. Never since the foundation of this Club have we assembled under brighter auspices. Victory is in the air! That mighty orb of our political system -- Democracy -- is passing out of its long eclipse. But lately its life-giving rays made sunlight in the valley of the Ohio, and now they are streaming down upon the valleys of the Connecticut, the Delaware, and the Hudson; they are lighting up the darkness of the South; they are flooding the Mississippi valley; they are kindling joy and gladness in millions of patriotic hearts from...
