Within ten years after that date, as has been seen, the Indian lands in Arkansas were acquired by the government, and as rapidly as was possible thereafter they were opened for settlement. The early settlement of Arkansas has been traced in preceding pages. The consideration of its history as a territory, 1819-36, is now in order. CHAPTER II Arkansas as a Territory O N MARCH 2, 1819, congress enacted that, after July 4, that year, all that part of Missouri territory south of a line beginning on the Mississippi river at thirty-six degrees north latitude, running thence west to the St. Francis river and up said river to thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes north latitude, . thence to the western terminal line of Missouri, should be a sepa rate territory to be known as Arkansaw territory. While the name...
