This pdf may be really worth a read, and superior to other. It generally does not price too much. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

Felix Fay saw with his mind s eye the map on the wall of the railway station-the map with a picture of iron roads from all over the middle west centering in a dark blotch in the corner. He was sitting at a desk in the office of the Port Royal Daily Record, writing headings on sheaves of items sent: n by country correspondents. John Hoffman has finished his new barn. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hayes last Wednesday a fine ten pound boy. Miss Edythe Brush has returned to the State Normal for the fall term. And so on. Felix wrote at the top of the page, Wheaton Whittlings. A rotten heading-but it would have to do. He yawned, and then stared unseeingly at the next page. He was not thinking about those news-itcms. He was thinking about Chicago. . . . A year ago, he had determined to leave Port Royal forever -and go to Chicago. But here he was, still! He had hoped, a year ago, to find, in the excitement of a new life in Chicago, healing for the desperate hearts of love. If only he had gone then! . . . But he hadn t had the money to buy a railway ticket. He had taken this job on the Record, and settled down to life in Port Royal again as a reporter. His twenty-first year had gone by. The hurts of love, so intolerably hard to bear, had healed. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
